Norman Baker
(HIMSELF)

66 MILES—from Muscatine to Wheeling West Va., left Muscatine in rain—rain all night—left Peoria five after eight in morning—arrived Wheeling, West Virginia, 11:30 SAME NIGHT—530 miles—half across Illinois—across Indiana—across Ohio—into West Virginia—spent hour and half for lunch and oil servicing—about as good as train or better—fine paving entire route—beautiful scenery, equals the ALPS or HUDSON through mountains.

RED MUD—that's what the farmers have on their farms in Virginia—it is the best producer—as red as red barn paint—fields of it look pretty—one young lady in party exclaimed "That's funny, I never knew the soil was mostly red down here, it never mentioned anything like that in our geography at school"—there are many things you can't read in geographies about AMERICA.

GASOLINE over 20 cents a gallon in Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland—our folks are lucky in the Middle West. Visited oil stations from Peoria to Frederic Md. before an abundant over thought of wanting a windshield.

MOUNTAIN DRIVING—when you take a hard, steady driving trip, especially through mountains—use heavy oil instead of summer medium—it doesn't get hot and THIN.

RAIN, RAIN, RAIN—that's all we have seen from Muscatine to Washington—rained all evening to Peoria—three quarters of the day to Wheeling—and all day to Washington—the rain has been general throughout the country from Mississippi valley into the East—nearly everything the elements could send—rain and HAIL on the mountain tops.

INVENTORS—there is a chance for you to invent a REAL GOOD windshield wiper—one that will move violently when the engine is running low—you get on mountains with the ordinary vacuum wipers and when the engine is laboring in low speed, wiper will not move—SNOW AND RAIN prevents sight—have to release throttle, then it starts—but that also sets the engine back in power. GET BUSY.

MEDICS are fighting back here in East as over home in Muscatine. I see by Columbus, Ohio papers that the County Medical unit is trying to revoke the license of Dr. R. G. Brower, an optician, because he mentioned the price of eyeglasses in East as over home in Muscatine—it was O K to advertise—BUT DON'T MENTION PRICE—its done simply because the opticians know their prices are too high, and they fear the truth being known with a loss OF BUSINESS.

ENGLAND—says Charlie Chaplin, is cheap, insane and that when he was a young fellow no one in England cared for him and now when their royal highnesses ask him to give them a performance while he is over there he tells them to go to Hades—THAT'S RIGHT, CHARLIE—I glory in your spunk—they had their opportunity and lost it—why should you cater to them now?

MUSCATINE, IOWA, TO WASHINGTON, D. C. in 24 hours of driving is not hard to do—TRY IT. Total mileage 390 miles.

YOU'VE BURNED THE PEAS—he said to his wife—she yelled—"Jim Fisher, if you don't take that back, I'll kill myself"—Jim thought she was fooling—he said it to tease her in front of a guest—she walked out of the room and shot herself—it was Mrs. James Fisher of Los Angeles—WHAT A FOOL THERE WAS. There isn't a man in the world worth DEATH, nor a woman. Only weak minded cowards do such things.

CONCENTRATION OF WEALTH HIT BY POPE PIUS

Also Condemns Communism in New Encyclical

BY GUGLIELMO EMANUEL
VATICAN CITY—(INS)—A vigorous condemnation of all class hatred or friction as embodied in communism, and likewise of the concentration of wealth and economic power in the hands of a few, as exemplified by present capitalism, was contained in a new encyclical on the relations of labor and capital issued today by Pope Pius XI.

The encyclical, only the resume of which was released for publication, was issued shortly before the Holy Father was scheduled to speak over a world-wide radio hook-up on the same subject. The full text of the encyclical will be issued in a few days.

Capital vs. Labor

In it Pope Pius after paying glowing tribute to the famous encyclical "rerum novarum" issued by Pope Leo XIII, 40 years ago, which his holiness characterized as the "magnum opus" of all catholic activities in the social sphere, reviewed all phases of relations between capital and labor "forty years after."

This was, in fact, the title of the encyclical: "quid dragesimo anno 1931."

Pope Pius discerned the growth of undesirable, if not dangerous, trends of thought and practices in the ranks of both labor and capital, and called for a "reconstruction of the whole economic system of the world."

Should Work Together

He declared it is necessary that both capital and labor share in the fruits of their mutual collaboration; called for an adequate wage for labor to enable the proletarian to obtain some of the advantages enjoyed by capital, and a surcease of present class friction.

The Pope, viewing the actual state of the modern economic world, did not condemn it as evil in itself, but said it was not in accordance with the social order, and that it is seriously warped and burdened with grave abuses.

Opposition Must Cease

"All opposition between classes must cease," he declared in the third part of the encyclical. "Harmonious collaboration must be established between the various trade groups. Work is not a saleable commodity of any kind but one of human dignity by which the working man must always be respected."

The Pope declared emphatically "that teaching of communism can not be reconciled with the doctrines of the church."

"The free and unbridled competition is being succeeded by an exaggerated concentration in the hands of a few, of the whole economic power, not only of single nations."

HUGE AIRPLANE FLEET FORMING

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
AIR DEPOT, FAIRFIELD, O.—(INS)—Uncle Sam mobilized his armies of the skies here today for spring maneuvers which will call in virtually every airplane at his command.

Into a city of tents, temporary quarters and rolling acres of staked planes, machines winged their way from every quarter.

The place took on the air of a giant wartime training camp, with its bustle and excitement. Wartime operation regulations were rigidly maintained as Fairfield depot and Wright field staffs made ready to house, feed and care for 672 planes and their accompanying personnel.

Early, incoming "ships" filled the sky, and all day long the drone of high speed motors told of the assemblage of the largest aerial force ever gathered.

The WEATHER man says

IOWA: Increasing cloudiness, slightly warmer in extreme east portion tonight; Saturday cloudy, followed by sunnier weather over the northern portion of the state, slightly cooler in northwest portion on late afternoon.

MISSOURI: Generally fair, somewhat warmer in east and south portions tonight; Saturday increasing cloudiness; sunnier weather over the northern portion of the state, slightly cooler in northwest portion on late afternoon.

WISCONSIN: Saturday increasing cloudiness; sunnier weather over the northern portion of the state, slightly cooler in northwest portion on late afternoon.

GENERAL FORECAST: The indications are for increasing cloudiness over the north-central states tonight and Saturday, with a fair to partly cloudy day on Sunday. The south-central states and Minnesota, while temperatures will continue to rise over the south-eastern portion of this forecast district. On Sunday the weather will be partly cloudy, possibly with showers over the extreme eastern portion of this district, with rather cool over northern sections.

Tells of Arlene's Death

KIRKLAND CASE WITNESS GONE

Witness Knew About Hilarity Preceding Arlene's Death

VALPARAISO, Ind.—(INS)—Disappearance of a woman witness for the state and testimony of a doctor who inspected 18-year-old Arlene Draves' body when it was exhumed were the sensations today in the second trial of Virgil Kirkland, 20, charged with killing the girl during a liquor party at Gary.

The missing witness was Victoria Leonard, 32, waitress in the restaurant to which Kirkland and his friends, with Arlene in the car, drove for sandwiches the night of the party, last November 29. She did not answer when her name was called in Judge Grant Crumpacker's court.

Lays Death to Shock

Dr. George P. Bicknell of East Chicago, asked what he believed caused Arlene's death, testified that there is no question in his mind but that the shocks from the abuse which she received together with the hemorrhage caused by the blow of fall to her head were responsible.

A Greek restaurant keeper drew a word picture of the free reign of flaming youth during his testimony.

The witness, Nick Christoph, owner of the hot dog stand where Kirkland and his three companions carried the girl on their trip for hamburgers, said the jury in the manner in which Kirkland invited his companions to visit his sweetheart in the car outside.

Before Dr. Bicknell took the stand the jurors were given an opportunity to examine at length the front of Arlene's body at the party, together with her brassiere and steps, and the shirt that Kirkland wore at the time.

Bicknell, who said he has performed "thousands" of autopsies, was present at the exhumation of Arlene's body at Reynolds, Ind., as an observer for the Lake county coroner.

He testified he found a swelling on Arlene's head, extending back two and one half inches from the hair line, and bruises on the back of the head and in front of the right ear. "There was an abrasion on the left shoulder and right arm, he said, and cuts and bruises on other parts of the body. He declared there was blood on the lower part of the body.

Behind the bruise on the head, Dr. Bicknell testified, was an extracranial hemorrhage caused by the head hitting a blunt object. This formed a blood clot about the size of an egg next to the skull, he said.

Crowd Snickers

Under cross examination Dr. Bicknell questioned by defense attorney Ronald Oldham, admitted he found no fractured bones, and said the nose "appeared to be normal."

At one point the attorney asked the witness if he had ever appeared as a witness in court before.

"And you got out of court alive?" "Oh, yes."

Snickers arose from the crowd and Judge Crumpacker rapped for order.

Earlier, Nick Christoph, proprietor of the restaurant to which Kirkland and three companions repaired the night of the party, told how the defendant allegedly invited his friends to go outside to the car in which Arlene was lying intoxicated.

LABOR LEADER GIVES WARNING ON WAGE CUTS

Strikes Justified If Slashes Continue, Says Green

BY GEORGE R. HOLMES
WASHINGTON—(INS)—Organized labor is growing restive under increasing indications of wage cuts in some lines of industry.

Twice in the past week William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has felt impelled to call public attention to the pledges given by industrial and business leaders at the outset of the depression to maintain existing wage levels, and to warn employers that "serious consequences" may be expected to follow anything like a concerted movement to cut them.

"Strikes Justified"

Today, for the first time since the slump began more than a year ago, the word "strike" entered Green's vocabulary in dealing with the situation.

"Strikes will be justified if no other method can be found to compel employers' efforts to reduce wages," he said.

"At the conference which the president of the United States called in Washington at the outset of this depression, the employers pledged themselves to maintain wages, and we interpret that as a moral obligation on their part. Labor, on its side, agreed not to agitate for increases, and that agreement has been kept. We have kept our part of the trade."

As yet, it is admitted, there has been no general lowering of wage scales, although some industries, here and there, have done so. The action has been more sporadic than general, but in the last month the trend has become more noticeable to the heads of labor. Hence the warning.

Labor Keeps Pledge

The prolonged depression, which began with the stock market crash late in 1929, has been singularly free from labor disturbances. There are now pending before the conciliation division of the labor department some fifty industrial disputes, the majority of them small. This number, according to officials, is only slightly above the normal amount always on hand.

The recent meetings of the United States chamber of commerce and the International chamber of commerce developed two distinct schools of thought concerning wage levels during this period economic depression.

One, which might be characterized as the federal farm board, felt that labor should be divided along with profits and dividends, i. e., that labor should be made to assume its share of the slump in the form of reduced wages. Several industrial spokesmen pointed out that the cost of living is now lower than it has been since pre-war days, while wages in general are still at high levels.

Hoover With Labor

The other school, which might be called the younger, felt entirely differently about it. The proponents of this school consider it necessary that the purchasing power of the general public be kept at high pitch if business is to work itself out from under the slump. Decreased purchasing power on the part of the workers, fewer sales, and smaller profits.

President Hoover's sympathies have been plainly with those who want to keep the American workman at a high purchasing power level.

Leaders of labor are relying heavily upon his attitude to check anything like a general movement toward lower wage levels. The next ninety days probably will tell the story.

CHARGE THEFT OF $5,000,000

Chicago Men Are Reported Involved by Great Britain

CHICAGO—(INS)—An international struggle in which at least one prominent resident of Chicago's "Gold Coast" was involved, was made today, when the British government through its local consul, requested extradition warrants charging the theft from Great Britain of 1,000,000 pounds sterling.

Tight-lipped silence was being maintained in the investigation, but it was learned that two men were named in the warrants and that the huge sum of close to $5,000,000 was obtained from Great Britain in sums varying from $100,000 to $750,000.

According to a report regarded as authentic, a man named Hagerty, representing the British consul, appealed some days ago to the department of justice for aid in removing the two alleged confidence men to London for trial.

Without absolute information as to the reported loss to the British Empire, Hagerty swore to the fact in the warrant on "information and belief."

Cloudiness May Be Followed Saturday By Cooler Weather

Increasing cloudiness with rising temperatures are foreseen for Muscatine and vicinity in state weather predictions issued today. The weather tonight is expected to be slightly warmer. Saturday will be cloudy followed by cooler weather except in the extreme southeast portion of the state.

Skies were partly cloudy here today with the wind from the south. The temperature reading at 7 a. m. today was 62 degrees, no change being noted in the past twenty-four hours. Stage of the river continued at 3.1 feet.

Broadway Pauses to Pay Tribute To Belasco, Leader in Drama

NEW YORK—(INS)—Broadway paused today to bow in tribute to David Belasco, one of the great figures of the American stage.

He died Thursday afternoon in his hotel apartment of a clot in one of the arteries near the heart.

He had planned to celebrate his seventy-seventh birthday in July by producing another play.

Weakened by a protracted illness through the winter, Belasco died a power to the end, which came while a large matinee audience was enjoying a performance of his latest play. The play was presented again Thursday night, while tributes from the leading producers, actors and critics marked his passing.

Notables As 'Fallbearers'

Funeral services will be held at 11 a. m. Sunday at the Central synagogue. Rabbi Jonah B. Wise will officiate and Edwin Milton Royle, playwright, will deliver the eulogy.

The honorary pallbearers will include, it was announced today, May, or Walker, Daniel Frohman, Lee Shubert, George M. Cohan, Al Jolson, Judge Mitchell Erlanger, Frank Gilmore, president of Actors Equity; A. O. Brown, shepherd of the Lambs club; Edward C. Carpenter,

'Papa Capone' Is En Route To U. S. To Box Al's Ears

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The Berlin newspapers today accorded a tolerant prominence to the claims of one Ladislav Kapovitch, a Rumanian, that he is the father of Al Capone, notorious American racketeer, and that he is going to the United States to "box Al's ears."

Kapovitch, the newspaper state, is aboard the S. S. Berlin, due in New York some time next week. He will go directly to Chicago and there, if his plans work out, confront the wayward Capone and "give him a good whaling."

The Rumanian, who is something of a character in his home town of Groswarden, apparently was not in the least dismayed by the fact that his off-repeated parental claims have been proved unfounded.

"I have not seen my son for 20 years," the newspaper Zwoelfuhrblatt quotes Kapovitch as saying when reminded of this fact. "I want to go to Chicago and convince myself whether my son is really the notorious Al Capone who the papers say, is the world's biggest racketeer and a multi-millionaire."

He is, I promise to give him a good ear boxing, and to take him back with me to Groswarden and make an honest business man out of him.

"I haven't told him I am coming. I want to surprise him."

The Berlin newspapers say Capone often has sent money to Kapovitch, but that the latter intended to make an address at the Berlin newspaper office.

WHEAT CONTROL IDEA DISPROVED

Farm Board Opposes Plan to Limit 2 Years' Crops

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The federal farm board today turned thumbs down on a proposal that a nationwide campaign be made by organized farmers, with financial aid and moral support from the board, to obtain control of the surplus wheat crops of 1931 to 1933, inclusive.

The plan also proposed to limit the surplus from the crops of 1932 and 1933 by having at least 75 per cent of the wheat growers to join a national surplus control association with a three-year membership contract binding each signatory to a definite program.

Stone Bars Views

The Board's views on the proposal were published in a letter from chairman James C. Stone to F. J. Ulmer, of the North Pacific Grain Growers Cooperative association, Rosalia, Wash.

The proposal, in effect, was that each farmer hold or deliver to the association without advance payment such proportion of his wheat crop as the board of directors might determine, on a percentage basis for the crop as a whole, grain so delivered to be sold through the Farmers National Grain corporation so as not to affect the domestic market for milling wheat; the surplus of handling and transportation to be returned to the grower.

Each grower was to limit his acreage sown for the crops of 1932 and 1933 in such percentage as the board of directors would designate. The theory underlying this proposal "evidently is that if such a campaign were successful, wheat growers would obtain better returns for their wheat of the 1931 and subsequent crops."

Plan Held Impractical

"The Board's conclusion is that the plan does not afford a practical way of dealing with our great surplus problem," Stone's letter said. "We believe it would be impossible even with intensive efforts, to get enough farmers to cooperate under the proposed contracts to give the plan a fair chance of success. A uniform nation wide contract for surplus control of acreage reduction would not be appropriate under widely diverse conditions. Whatever benefits the plan might yield would go most heavily to those farmers who did not share in its obligations."

"There is no assurance it would actually yield the majority of significant better returns for their wheat than they will otherwise get. The plan would put large additional burdens on the agency charged with disposing of the surplus, and commit us to a continuous policy of export dumping that, we believe, would prove injurious to our wheat growers in the long run."

SENTENCE IS COMMUTED TO A LIFE TERM

Des Moines Man's Attorney Wins Fight Against Death

DES MOINES—(INS)—Governor Dan Turner today commuted the sentence of Dr. Fred Woodmansee, of Des Moines, sentenced to hang for the murder of W. R. Knapp of Des Moines, to life imprisonment.

The governor issued the following statement here today:

"I am commuting the death penalty imposed by the court upon Fred A. Woodmansee for the murder of W. F. Knapp to life imprisonment.

Mitigating Circumstances

"After carefully reviewing the evidence in the record, both the majority and minority opinions of the supreme court and taking into consideration all facts and evidence available outside the court records of the case and of a mitigating character, it is my judgment that this is a case in which executive clemency should be granted. I believe it is my duty in this case to commute the death penalty to life imprisonment."

Turner Last Resort

Governor Turner's action brings to an end a successful fight by Dr. Woodmansee, formerly a Des Moines dentist, and his counsel, Harry B. Grund, to save the dentist's life, which has lasted more than a year.

After he was sentenced in January, 1930, to be hanged for the crime, Dr. Woodmansee appealed his case to the supreme court. It first came up in the high tribunal May 17, 1930, but was continued until June 17. In December last year, a majority of the supreme court, just before Grund took the opinion that he was guilty and that the sentence should not be changed.

Although he was sentenced to be executed April 1, 1931, he was granted a short reprieve when the supreme court took under advisement a petition for a rehearing of the appeal. Last week this petition was denied by Grund, and the case to the only man left, Governor Turner.

WOODMANSEE 'GLAD'

FORT MADISON, Ia.—(INS)—"I certainly am glad, but I expected it all along," Dr. Fred A. Woodmansee said this morning when told that the Governor had commuted his sentence of death on the gallows to one of life imprisonment.

Asked if he felt any different, he said, "Not at all, not at all. I never allowed myself to be under the death sentence in my thinking, but I am glad and grateful to Governor Turner for his commutation."

Prison guards who have been with Woodmansee since he was "dressed in" here say that his attitude is no different as he had never given up hope.

The dentist was receiving the congratulations of prison officials and fellow inmates.

TURNER SIGNS SEVERAL BILLS

DES MOINES—(INS)—Banks of the state will be allowed to reduce the rate of interest on government deposits to 1 per cent during the months of April and October under the provisions of an act signed this morning by Governor Dan W. Turner. The measure also provides for the codifying of laws regulating such deposits.

Hereafter no junior college may be established in a town of less than 20,000 population, another bill approved by Turner this morning provides.

Habitual violators of the state's prohibition laws may be imprisoned for three years, according to an amendment to the code signed this morning. The governor also approved an act providing that surplus earnings of municipally owned water works, gas works, electric or heating plants may be used for municipal improvements.

Three bills which were disapproved by the governor complete all bills passed by the assembly and which had been pending gubernatorial action.

An attempt to lower the "fee value" of non-par stock of Iowa corporations was disapproved by the governor, who stated that the measure would have decreased the state's revenue from this source some 75 per cent, and would have encouraged the issuance of non-par stock.

Governor Turner, in refusing to sign a bill which would have altered the system of assessing auto license fees, stated that this act would have reduced income to the primary road fund approximately $250,000 per year without materially aiding the individual owner. At the same time it would have thrust a considerable added burden on the state auto department and the county treasurers, the governor contended.

ions, but of the entire world. This concentration of these powers has degenerated into tyrannical despotism.

"The only efficacious remedy for this disorder is to return to the safe principles of christian social philosophy and their prudent application to capital and labor, and the relations between the two.

"Socialism, which boasted of applying a radical remedy to the same ill as a remedy which was worse than the disease itself. It has split into communism and has mitigated socialism.

"The teaching of communism can not be reconciled with the doctrine of the church. Socialism, even when it approaches close to catholic principles, we don't hesitate to declare solemnly, is wrong, even though on many points its teachings themselves are conformable to justice and are admitted so by the church. Socialism, so long as it remains socialism, nevertheless has fundamental conceptions of human solidarity so different from the true concept given us by the gospels that any agreement of doctrine remains absolutely impossible.

"It is not possible to be a good catholic and at the same time a good socialist. Those erring souls who have been deceived by false hopes and have swollen the ranks of socialism should return without delay to the bosom of the church.

"The root of disorder, both in the modern economic world, so long as it remains socialism, lies in man fixing his eyes on earthly goods without need to God and things eternal. The remedy must be applied to the root itself by raising up men's hearts to God and filling them with nobler, purer aspirations.

"All men of good will ought to concur in the renovation of society on the basis of the gospel of Christ and charity.

"We rejoice to see the initiative and zeal with which not only the clergy but laymen in large numbers, including many young men, are filled with the spirit of catholic action and working in several countries.

"For, if the condition of affairs diametrically opposed to the church should prevail, as many insist, the disaster would be terrible."

Autoists Respond To Service Given On Car Headlights

Motorists of Muscatine and vicinity are showing that they do not intend to blind their fellow drivers with glaring headlights, from the manner in which they are accepting the service being offered at the Henderson garage by Owen E. Dailey, president of the Dailey Light Corporation of Chicago.

Mr. Dailey, who has been giving the service to local drivers for the past two weeks, announced today that he will remain in Muscatine until Monday and that those who wish to obtain the service may do so by calling at the garage on or before that day and having their lights corrected.

"I am convinced that the average motorist is considerate at heart of the other on the highway, and that, by the large number who have asked for an inspection and correction of their lights," Mr. Owen said today.

According to the headlight specialist, lights on all automobiles are designed to give a clear vision of a curve before the driver approaches the warning sign. If the curve is not visible before the sign is reached, it is because the headlights need correcting. This can be made for a very moderate charge. Motorists can have their lights inspected and told all about them, without any charge by the specialist.

Local College To Send Many Players To Albia Saturday

With the Blackhawk conference getting under way Saturday at Albia plans for Muscatine's entry are announced today.

Girls and boys tennis teams and boys golf will be represented as follows:

Girls singles matches: Wilma Switzer and Dorothy Werner. Girls doubles matches: Thelma Crow and Alice Barry.

Boys tennis, singles and doubles: Alva Runyon, Bob Asthalter, Francis Wells and Phil Kopp.

Golf: Charles Meerdink, Paul Peterson, Harold Pigg, and Glen Fairall.

Miss Marguerite Dow, Junior College girls tennis coach, will take her teams over early in the morning. Miss Wilmetta Strahan, dean of the college, will provide transportation for the boys tennis teams and the girls men will ride to Albia with Charles Meerdink.

Muscatine Bridge Tender Completes 40th Year Here

Forty years a bridge tender for the Muscatine Bridge corporation and still going strong, that is the record established by A. W. Fryberger, 508 Walnut street, Saturday will find this amiable gentleman established at his same old post where he has reigned supreme for the past forty years. People who hand him their fare will do so in the same manner as they have done for years. Strangers will come and go and he will continue to be his usual congenial self. No one will notice anything out of the way. However, Saturday will be the fortieth anniversary of Mr. Fryberger's stay at the old stand.

In all the years of his service he has never missed a day and for thirty years had no vacation. However, Saturday he has married and now is permitted a two weeks rest annually. When "Andy" first came to Muscatine he was employed as a steel worker on the bridge. For thirteen months he plugged away in this line helping to complete the present structure. He explained that it was not his intention to remain in our city for any great length of time when he first came to work here. But as the thirteen month period wore on to a close it was difficult to leave. And as he

Recent business visitors of Frank M. Myers, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, were R. A. Henrich of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, Davenport, and H. C. Leach, editor of the bulletin "This Week in Davenport."

The condition of J. R. Lee, aged Lone Tree resident who fell and broke his hip last Sunday, was reported today as unchanged, although he rested easily Thursday night. He is confined at the Bellevue hospital.

The condition of Alderman Henry Matthiessen, who is ill at his home, 100 Wisconsin street, was reported today as improved.

MOOSE MEMBER DRIVE OPENED

Charter Will Remain Open Until Sept. 1 For Campaign

Commemorating the silver jubilee campaign which will be observed generally by Loyal Order of Moose lodges, the Muscatine Moose organization will begin a drive for new members at once. Plans for the drive were completed at the regular meeting Thursday night.

The membership campaign will continue until Sept. 1, during which time it is hoped to secure from 100 to 150 new members. The charter will remain open during that time. Several class initiations will be held during that time and national speakers will come here from Muscatine, Ill., where the national home for children of Moose members is maintained. The Moose lodge is 25 years old and the various drives are in observance of the event.

Definite announcement regarding the proposed extension of the Moose hall on West Second street, will be made at the next meeting to be held on May 28, it was announced.

PHILS BEATEN BY REDS, 10-5

PHILADELPHIA—(INS)—The Cincinnati Reds took the measure of the Phils in the first game of a double header today, trouncing the Shotton men, 10 to 5. The Reds put on a five-run rally in the sixth to forge ahead of the Phils who led at the time, 3 to 1.

Red Lucas, on the mound for Dan Howley, was shaky at the start but settled down in the third and was not in danger again until the seventh when Big Busz Arlet socked his sixth homer of the year over the right field wall, scoring Bartell with him to bring the Phils within one run of the Reds, Cincinnati put on another rally in the eighth, however, and put the game on ice by scoring three runs.

Check Passer Taken After Long Search

A search of a year's duration was ended this afternoon when local police arrested William Cox of Cedar Rapids on a charge of drawing a check without funds.

A warrant for Cox's arrest on the charge was issued about a year ago.

MEMORIAL FOR W. M. NARVIS TO BE DEDICATED

Shaft To Be Unveiled Here at Greenwood Cemetery Sunday

The Rev. J. B. Rendall, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will deliver the invocation and benediction at the W. M. Narvis memorial services to be held at Greenwood cemetery Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at which time a monument, erected in honor of the late Supreme Master Workman of the Ancient Order of United Workmen, will be unveiled.

Mr. Narvis was long a business man here in Muscatine, having been head of the Record Printing company for many years.

He was born June 10, 1861, and died in December, 1928.

Other Muscatine speakers will be W. A. Matthews, chairman of the memorial program, and James L. Gleason, member of the board of directors.

Matthews will present the memorial to the Grand Lodge, A. O. U. W., and Gleason will deliver an eulogy.

The program follows: Invocation—Rev. J. B. Rendall. "Auld Lang Syne"—Rotary Double Quartette.

Benediction—Rev. J. B. Rendall.

Rotary and Chamber of Commerce bodies of men in the Greenwood cemetery chapel to attend the services in group form.

Ray Fairbanks, funeral director, has offered to make arrangements for the use of his large tent in case the weather is bad during the services, it was learned today.

SHERIFF GIVEN LIST OF AUTOS

300 Delinquent Cars Are Now Subject To Seizure

A list of names of approximately 300 owners of automobiles upon which the 1931 licenses have not yet been paid, was today turned over to Sheriff F. B. Nepper, by County Treasurer E. A. Van Dyke.

Each of the delinquent car owners has been notified by mail that the licenses must be paid and today was the time set for final action.

The sheriff's office will trace all of the cars listed, and the owners are subject to arrest and confiscation of their cars.

Persons owning cars which they do not drive but keep in permanent storage are required to make affidavit at the courthouse to that effect. A number of delinquent owners reported today they were junking their cars.

DISTRICT COURT

Thomas Williams, defendant in the divorce suit by Sarah Williams, filed motion today for a modification of the court order and asking that a part of the attachment against his property be discharged.

H. M. Bartlett is attorney for the defendant.

SUNLIGHT INN OPENS TONIGHT

Proprietor Built Up Business in Ice Cream Here

Ray Wintermute, who came here from the farm thirteen years ago and decided this was a good location for an ice cream plant, has expanded his activities to such an extent that tonight he will open one of the most up-to-date restaurants in this vicinity.

The new restaurant is the new addition to the Sunlight Inn, located at the southeast corner of Third street and Mulberry avenue. The addition, which has a floor area of 2,700 square feet, can accommodate 150 people at a time.

The dance floor in the center is surrounded by 12 booths of new design. Instead of having fixed benches, each booth contains a table and four chairs.

Wintermute will accommodate casual diners, luncheon parties, or banquets in the new establishment. An experienced chef will prepare in the modern kitchen any foods the diner may desire.

All work on the addition was done by local firms.

Wintermute came here from a nearby farm and, deciding that there was a good opening in Muscatine for a wholesale ice cream plant, in 1918 organized the Pearl City Ice Cream company. This company he built up from the ground. The first year's output was only 6,000 gallons, but by 1930, when the plant was sold out, its annual output was 52,000 gallons yearly.

Wintermute then opened the Sunlight Inn as a small place selling ice cream and soft drinks. Steadily increasing business required that the place be expanded, and the new restaurant is the result.

School Kids Leave On Davenport Trip Saturday Morning

School children who distinguished themselves in the school tag day last Saturday will leave the city hall at 8 a. m. Saturday for the trip to Davenport being given as a reward to the boy and girl from each public and parochial school who sold the most tags for their school.

Charles Kern, truant officer has obtained a truck which will be used for transportation. Boxes of candy bars and other treats have been obtained for the children.

The first stop will be at the Davenport orphan home. The children will also be treated to dinner and a movie. They will be returned to the city hall at 6 p. m.

All expenses of the trip are borne by merchants and others friendly to the fund, and are not taken from the tag receipts.

Besides the boy and girl from each school, those taking the trip will include three girls who distinguished themselves in spelling contests, and also three school officials, Kern, Miss Helen Ahlschlager, and Mrs. Marie Ruthenberg.

First Christians Plan to Modernize Old German Church

Plans are being made for rehabilitation of the 40-year-old German Congregational church building, Fifth and Cedar streets, which has been purchased by the First Christian church.

The Christian church is now occupying a frame structure at the southwest corner of Eighth and Cedar streets.

The price of the old building is believed to have been close to $29,000, about a third paid down and the balance in installments.

The German Congregational church was organized here in December, 1854. In 1887 it was decided to erect a new church, which was built in 1891. The cornerstone was laid in August of that year and the structure was dedicated in November. Services in the church were disbanded last year.

The Christian church was organized in Muscatine in 1926. It bought the site of the present frame structure, intending to build in the future, but in the words of the pastor, "not wishing to burden the community with another building, the First Christian church of Muscatine decided to keep alive the purpose for which the old church was dedicated 40 years ago."

An electric deodorizer to destroy odors of cooking has been invented that can be operated with a lighted current.

variably has returned it. Kapovitch declared he was traveling at his own expense.

A check-up by International News Service at Boston failed to reveal Kapovitch's name on the passenger list of any steamer leaving that port recently.

The Roumanian peasant came forward with his claim about a year ago, at a time when Capone's exploits were occupying much space in the European press. Kapovitch's claim, tinged with some regret that his "son" had chosen a life of crime, was widely circulated in Europe and eventually reached the United States, where it met with a fusillade of repudiations and denials.

Denied by Capone CHICAGO — (INS)—"Of course the story is absurd and a poor attempt on the part of someone to annoy my mother," Al Capone told International News Service today when informed that a story from Berlin, Germany, stated that Ladislav Kapovitch, a Roumanian, who claims to be the gang leader's father, was on his way to America.

Capone dropped his usual jovial manner and, taking the story seriously, revealed details of his family life never made public.

"Anyone who wants to investigate will find the family burial lot in Mount Olivet cemetery here. My father is buried there with my brother Frank."

"My father's name was Gabriel," he said. "He died in Brooklyn, N. Y., on Nov. 4, 1928. His body was first buried in a Brooklyn cemetery, but when my mother came here some years ago to live with me, I had his body brought here."

'Painted Desert' Shows at A-Muse-U Today and Saturday

Since his triumph in "The Last Frontier," Bill Boyd never was seen to finer advantage than in the Pathe dialogue picture of the west, "The Painted Desert," at A-Muse-U theater. The picture is colorful, dramatic and there are numerous thrills.

With ninety percent of the picture photographed on the location in the story in the desertland of Arizona and on the Indian Reservation, "The Painted Desert" brings to the screen a drama laid in backgrounds never before photographed. The story of "The Painted Desert" concerns a feud between two old Arizona pioneers and the romance of their children. The picture is packed with thrills and action. The stampede of a herd of five hundred cattle and a death-defying race of twenty-mile teams are only part of the blood-tinged incidents that help raise the drama to a high pitch.

Helen Twilley plays opposite Bill Boyd with artistry and fine poise. The supporting cast was excellent, the work of William Farnum, J. Farrell Macdonald and Clark Gable being especially fine. Others in the cast are: Edmund Breese, Will Walling, Al St. John, Jerry Drew, Wade Boteler, Richard Cramer, James Mason and James Donlan. Edward Elgin directed with felicitous results.

Clara Wants Free Press Readers to 'Kick in' for Her

Movie fans of Muscatine, attention, Clara Bow wants a new monogram idea for her rideabout and she wants you to show her that monogram. Now "Kick In" with your idea of how a monogram made up of the two letters "C. B." should look. Its easy. But use only the two letters. They can be set in diamonds, circles, squares, ovals or what have you. Just so you get a legible C. B.

Whether the "old bus" is a day-old new model, or last year's car being prettied up for further service a monogram is the last word in a personal touch that you can give any car. Now wouldn't you like to have your monogram adorn the doors of Clara Bow's car?

For the ten best monograms sent in to the Free Press, ten movie fans will be guests of this paper at the Fox Palace on next Monday or Tuesday night to see Clara Bow in the Paramount picture "Kick In."

As an added incentive, Manager Creamer of the Fox Palace is going to give a two dollar and a half gold piece for the very best monogram sent in. Then the ten prize winning monograms are going to be forwarded on to Clara Bow at her Hollywood studio. So perhaps some day a monogram from a Muscatine fan may adorn the doors of Clara Bow's car.

Now, get busy. Send in only one monogram. It must be in black ink on white paper. Use a sheet six inches square. Use any design or arrangement you choose, but keep the letters "C. B." in proper sequence. Quotes or periods are optional. At the top of your paper write: "I submit this as an idea for a Clara Bow automobile monogram." Then draw in your monogram idea. At the bottom of the page sign your name and street address. Put it in an envelope and mail or bring it to the Monogram editor, The Free Press. The contest closes midnight Saturday. Winners will be announced Monday.

WAGE EARNERS INCREASED IN IOWA IN 1929

Products Valued at $138,588,560, Census Bureau Says

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(INS)—Iowa's ranks of wage earners swelled 18 per cent and the value of products manufactured in the state increased 12.1 per cent during 1929 over the last census year, 1927, according to figures released here by the Bureau of Census.

Statistics released by the census bureau as compiled from the 1930 census showed that in 1929 Iowa had an average of $2.615 wage earners while in 1927 wage earners in the state numbered 73,692. Salaries paid wage earners totaled $103,532,117 during 1928. Figures were not given on a comparison basis of salaries paid to employees in 1927.

Products manufactured in the state during 1929 were valued at $138,588,560 more than the value of products made during 1927. The total for 1929 was $907,929,170 while the value less the cost of materials, fuel and purchased electric energy amounted to $37,937,730.

During 1929 there were 3,317 manufacturing concerns in Iowa, the summary stated. The number of salaried officers and employees not including the number of employees of central administrative offices located elsewhere than at the factories, was given as 15,794.

Compensation during 1929 to these officials was $35,003,015.

The census of manufactures covers manufacturing and printing and publishing establishments whose products made during the census year were valued at $5,000 or more. Repair shops and establishments engaged solely in custom work, such as custom tailor shops, are not included.

In figures for 1929 the Census Bureau report shows among cities having a population of 10,000 or more that while Des Moines had 330 establishments in 1929, nearly twice as many as any other city, the value of products manufactured in Sioux City was $133,576,118 compared to $98,905,779 in Des Moines.

Des Moines also had the largest number of wage earners in 1929 with 8,817 although Waterloo was close behind with 6,684 wage earners. Sioux City was next in the list with 6,168 wage earners.

The value of products produced in Waterloo was $85,490,809. The city was fourth in this list since Cedar Rapids was third with a valuation of $94,636,038.

Wages paid Des Moines workers amounted to $11,473,650. Manufacturers in Waterloo paid their employees a total of $9,190,123 while Sioux City workers earned $8,499,365.

365 Cedar Rapids workers were paid $7,228,561 in 1929.

The table for cities having a population of 10,000 or more:

	Wage Earners	Value of Products
Boone	281	238,358
Cedar Rapids	5,823	94,636,038
Clinch	3,170	3,980,389
Council Bluffs	2,003	2,984,003
Davenport	4,748	9,753,837
Des Moines	8,817	11,473,650
Dubuque	4,232	4,845,569
Fl. Dodge	685	943,554
Fl. Madison	1,197	1,209,921
Kokuk	1,449	1,602,480
Marshalltown	1,825	2,066,277
Nason City	2,214	2,893,445
Muscatine	2,851	2,557,301
Sioux City	6,168	8,499,365
Waterloo	6,684	8,510,123

(1)—Not including salaried employees.

(2)—Manufacturer's profits cannot be calculated from the census.

(3)—The aggregates for cost of materials and value of products include large but indeterminate amounts of duplication due to the use of the products of some industries as materials by others.

Lumber Company to Note 36th Year of Business Saturday

The Muscatine Lumber and Coal company will celebrate its 36th anniversary Saturday.

On May 15, 1895, the company began in a small shop. Today it boasts of more than 50,000 feet of floor space to transact its business.

When the company began it handled three items of merchandise. Today it handles 82. It not only furnishes coal and wood for the home but many other things which are used daily in any home. It is one of Muscatine's oldest firms.

FLY OVER U. S. IN 28 HOURS

Day, Night Service Is Begun; Air Lines Expanding

NEW YORK—(Special)—Day and night air passenger service from coast to coast has been inaugurated by the Boeing Air Transport and National Air Transport between New York and San Francisco. Two other lines are planning similar services.

Passengers may make the east-bound trip in 28 hours and the westbound flight in 31 hours. The difference is due to prevailing westerly winds.

Already a number of trips on the new schedule have been made.

Heretofore passengers on any of the three transcontinental airways have had to lay over all night in some city along the airway or else ride a train at night.

It is expected that Transcontinental and Western Air, operating the "central transcontinental" from New York to Los Angeles, will begin through day and night service before autumn and that Southern Air Transport, flying the southern transcontinental route from Atlanta to Los Angeles, will do likewise within a year.

Capt. F. C. Hingsburg, chief of the airways division, Department of Commerce, predicts that before July, 1932, all three lines will be running continuous coast to coast trips in less than 24 hours.

Auroran Pleasing This Month; Just Off School Press

The May issue of the Auroran, Muscatine high school's monthly magazine is off the press today with a bang and cheer for "old times sake." It is the anniversary number, marking 24 years of progress in Auroran publication at the school.

This issue will interest many. It gives a full account of the growth, telling of the first editor, just one of these "figure heads."

There is much within the covers of the Auroran this month. Twenty-eight pages, bound in a simple red-brown cover with a "sport-loving girl" waving her school colors, perhaps to her "big boy" on the field, offer something to high school students (and mothers and fathers, too) which could not be duplicated for the price.

Lyman Green, high school print shop advisor, was busy this morning getting together the last bits of the Auroran so that the students might have the book by the time school was out.

A. F. Polk of Muscatine called the meeting to order.

The entertainment program: Whistling solo by C. W. Quandt of Muscatine; piano solo by Miss Milburn of West Liberty; reading, "Musical Dumbbell," by Hazel Brier of Muscatine; song, "Iowa," by West Liberty Rebekah lodge; talk, "Oddfellowship," by W. R. Schmitt of Nichols; address, "Good of Oddfellowship," by A. F. Polk of Muscatine; piano solo by Vera Overton of Wilton; song by A. F. Polk of Muscatine; several vocal solos by Leon Hankins, Muscatine.

Musical number by The Tinker Toms refracted silver Marine Band, Chas. Morrison and Happy Two. A very unusual reading, "The Eagle," by Thos. McTear of West Liberty. Refreshments were served by the Wilton Rebekah's, coffee furnished through the courtesy of H. F. Larsen of Muscatine, Iowa. Dancing followed the refreshments.

JESUS ENTERS JERUSALEM AS KING

LESSON TEXT—Luke 19:29-48. GOLDEN TEXT—These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them; for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings; and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Teaches the People That He Is King.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Teaches the People That He Is King.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Loyalty to the King.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Supremacy of Jesus.

This event is frequently designated as the "triumphal entry" which is somewhat misleading. While it was his official entry into Jerusalem, it was far from being a triumphal entry. In fulfillment of prophecy the Messiah officially presented himself to the Jewish nation. It seems that back of the cry "Hosanna" was taking form the awful word "crucify." It is possible that the word "crucify" was uttered by some of the same persons who had cried "Hosanna." Though they were utterly blind to the fact, God was about to carry out his plan of Hosanna which means "save now" through the crucifixion of his son.

1. The Preparation (vv. 29-34).

1. Sending the disciples for the ass (vv. 29-30).

He told them just where to go to find it, and how to answer the inquiry of the one who owned it. This shows how perfectly the Lord knows all our ways.

2. The fulfillment of prophecy (Zech. 9: 9, Cf. Matt. 21: 4, 5).

Some five hundred years before, Zechariah had predicted this event—Christ's entry into Jerusalem as an exact fulfillment of this prediction.

3. Obedience of the disciples (vv. 32-34).

The request may have seemed strange and even unreasonable, yet they fully obeyed. The true disciple will render glad obedience to the Lord, no matter how strange his commands may seem. Obedience is that only which seems reasonable to that only which seems reasonable to the Lord.

4. The Entry of the King (vv. 35-38).

1. The disciples set Jesus upon the ass (vv. 35).

This act of putting the garments upon the ass and setting Jesus upon it showed that they recognized him as their king (II Kings 9:13).

2. Acclaimed as king by the disciples (vv. 36-38).

Some spread their garments in the way, others perhaps having no garments to spare cut down branches of trees and strewed them in his way. This, no doubt, was just as acceptable to him. They praised God for all the mighty works which they had seen.

III. The Critical Pharisees (vv. 39, 40).

Although swept along by the demonstrations of the multitude, the Pharisees deemed it prudent to ask the Lord to rebuke the disciples, as such behavior might be interpreted by the Roman government as an insurrection. To their demand Jesus replied that such homage was not only fitting but necessary. He declared that if the multitude were silent, the very stones would cry out.

IV.—The King Rejected (vv. 41-44).

Christ knew what awaited him in Jerusalem. Though surrounded by loyal hearts, he knew that the rulers of the nation had no heart for him. His coming trial and death loomed before him so that he wept over Jerusalem. He knew what awful days awaited it and that hearts would gladly welcome him if they only knew. He showed them that their King and Saviour would result in bringing upon them the destruction of their city.

V. The King Taking Possession of His Own House (vv. 45-48).

Upon entering the city he rebuked the rulers for allowing the house of God to become degraded by carrying on traffic therein for gain. The cleansing of the temple only increased their hatred and opposition to him. The chief priests and scribes even sought his destruction.

WAGE EARNERS INCREASED IN IOWA IN 1929

Products Valued at $138,588,560, Census Bureau Says

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(INS)—Iowa's ranks of wage earners swelled 18 per cent and the value of products manufactured in the state increased 12.1 per cent during 1929 over the last census year, 1927, according to figures released here by the Bureau of Census.

Statistics released by the census bureau as compiled from the 1930 census showed that in 1929 Iowa had an average of $2,615 wage earners while in 1927 wage earners in the state numbered 73,692. Salaries paid wage earners totaled $103,532,117 during 1928. Figures were not given on a comparison basis of salaries paid to employees in 1927.

Products manufactured in the state during 1929 were valued at $138,588,560 more than the value of products in 1927. The total for 1929 was $907,929,170 while the value less the cost of materials, fuel and purchased electric energy amounted to $32,937,730.

During 1929 there were 3,317 manufacturing concerns in Iowa the summary stated. The number of salaried officers and employees not including the number of employees of central administrative offices located elsewhere than at the factories, was given as 15,794.

Compensation during 1929 to these officials was $35,003,015.

The census of manufactures covers manufacturing and printing and publishing establishments whose products made during the census year were valued at $5,000 or more. Repair shops and establishments engaged solely in custom work, such as custom tailor shops, are not included.

In figures for 1929 the Census Bureau report shows among cities having a population of 10,000 or more that while Des Moines had 330 establishments in 1929, nearly twice as many as any other city, the value of products manufactured in Sioux City was $133,576,118 compared to $98,905,779 in Des Moines.

Des Moines also had the largest number of wage earners in 1929 with 8,817 although Waterloo was close behind with 6,684 wage earners. Sioux City was next in the list with 6,168 wage earners.

The value of products produced in Waterloo was $85,490,809. The city was fourth in this list since Cedar Rapids was third with a valuation of $94,636,038.

Wages paid Des Moines workers amounted to $11,473,650. Manufacturers in Waterloo paid their employees a total of $9,130,123 while Sioux City workers earned $8,499,365.

365 Cedar Rapids workers were paid $7,228,501 in 1929.

The Table for Cities having a population of 10,000 or more:

City	Wage Earners	Value of Products
Boone	281	238,358
Cedar Rapids	5,883	94,636,038
Cedar Rapids	5,883	94,636,038
Cedar Rapids	5,883	94,636,038
Cedar Rapids	5,883	94,636,038

Cedar Rapids	5,883	94,636,038

(1)—Not including salaried employees.
(2)—Manufacturer's profits cannot be calculated from the census.
(3)—The aggregates for cost of materials and value of products include large but indeterminate amounts of duplication due to the use of the products of some industries as materials by others.

Lumber Company to Note 36th Year of Business Saturday

The Muscatine Lumber and Coal company will celebrate its 36th anniversary Saturday.

On May 15, 1895, the company began in a small shop. Today it boasts of more than 50,000 feet of floor space to transact its business.

When the company began it handled three items of merchandise. Today it handles 82. It not only furnishes coal and wood for the home but many other things which are used daily in any home. It is one of Muscatine's oldest firms.

FLY OVER U. S. IN 28 HOURS

Day, Night Service Is Begun; Air Lines Expanding

NEW YORK—(Special)—Day and night air passenger service from coast to coast has been inaugurated by the Boeing Air Transport and National Air Transport between New York and San Francisco. Two other lines are planning similar services.

Passengers may make the east-bound trip in 28 hours and the westbound flight in 31 hours. The difference is due to prevailing westerly winds.

Already a number of trips on the new schedule have been made.

Heretofore passengers on any of the three transcontinental airways have had to lay over all night in some city along the airway or else ride a train at night.

It is expected that Transcontinental and Western Air, operating the "central transcontinental" from New York to Los Angeles, will begin through day and night service before autumn and that Southern Air Transport, flying the southern transcontinental route from Atlanta to Los Angeles, will do likewise within a year.

Capt. F. C. Hingsburg, chief of the airways division, Department of Commerce, predicts that before July, 1932, all three lines will be running continuous coast to coast trips in less than 24 hours.

Auroran Pleasing This Month; Just Off School Press

The May issue of the Auroran, Muscatine high school's monthly magazine is off the press today with a bang and cheer for "old times sake." It is the anniversary number, marking 24 years of progress in Auroran publication at the school.

This issue will interest many. It gives a full account of the growth, telling of the first editor, just one of these "figure heads."

There is much within the covers of the Auroran this month. Twenty-eight pages, bound in a simple red-brown cover with a "sport-loving girl" waving her school colors, perhaps to her "big boy" on the field, offer something to high school students (and mothers and fathers, too) which could not be duplicated for the price.

Lyman Green, high school print shop advisor, was busy this morning getting together the last bits of the Auroran so that the students might have the book by the time school was out.

As We See It

An Average Of 95

The boy and girl accorded highest honors in this year's senior class at the Muscatine High school each averaged approximately 95 for their entire four years in the local institution. This is a most excellent record. It shows attention to the school work, a determination and ability to accomplish, of the highest order. That the girl is only 15 indicates that she is entitled to be called a prodigy which the dictionary defines as "a person with remarkable ability or powers."

These things do not "just happen." Regardless of one's natural ability it requires constant study to achieve these results. While it is true that school work seems to be mastered more easily by some students than others, if one keeps on trying, is consistent in his or her efforts, an experience is gained that will prove invaluable in later life.

The determination to do one's work well in school generally is followed by a determination to "make good" when school life is ended. All students cannot average 95 but they can cultivate the will to win and if high standings are incidental thereto so much the better. But boy boys and girls who did not attain this average should remember that primarily success in life is won only if we strive constantly to do our best. This trait, more than any other, is sought in business life. The boy who may be partially fitted for a job who does not try will find himself in the back seat sooner or later while the totally inexperienced youth with the determination to learn will be "the man at the steering wheel."

Good Health Club

"DETOXICATING THE BODY"

After becoming auto-intoxicated much more can be done for the patient by a (sometimes) rigid detoxicating diet, plus careful massage and adjustments, than all the drugs in the greatest drug store in the world.

To become auto-intoxicated or self-poisoned, all we have to do in the majority of cases, is to go on eating wrong foods and living a fast pace in general, as we have been doing.

We have been going down hill for a long time—not a few, but most of us, have had a strong hold upon us, and the changes which we have passed through from the times when man lived closer to nature and the present age, where competition is so keen, does not find much time to take hours in looking after himself, and in getting plenty of rest and relaxation.

Social and business demands have forced us into many a habit and rut, which, unconsciously, we follow, week after week, year in and year out, without a thought as to the consequences so far as health is concerned, until some ailment brings us to a halt.

The struggle for the acquiring of earthly goods, and often, the struggle for mere existence, has led man to eat here, and there, and time, eating any kind of food, prepared in a variety of ways—some of it digestible, a little of it containing some nourishment, most of it a lot of devitalized waste, and the body expends more energy and wastes more of its vital forces in trying to rid itself of the waste than would be used in a day's work.

The burden of this useless material which is daily accumulating in the body amounts to more than the system can handle, and the more the system becomes clogged up, the less energy there is and the more poison there is in the body. This places a great handicap upon a person. Life is a great struggle and a difficult problem at best, and to make a success of life, with one's body partly dulled by the gases from auto-intoxication, places one at a great disadvantage.

Besides the usual toxemia resulting from decayed foods, there are more deeply seated toxemias which are the result of suppressive treatments in connection with social diseases. These more serious diseases are often driven deeply within the body by being suppressed, and may develop into active disturbances by the proper exciting conditions. Many cases are reported cured after being tried by the Wasserman test, which in reality are only suppressed. The Wasserman test can be either positive or negative while clinical evidence may be, and often is, just the opposite.

The lymphatic system is one which may be over looked where the toxins are being eliminated under the microscope.

der treatment. While the lymphatics are associated with the circulation, they are peculiar in that as they proceed along in their course, they pass through numerous rounded glandular masses, called lymphatic glands, which vary in size from that of a pea to that of an almond. Each gland, besides being filled by a network of small lymphatics, is also permeated by numerous capillary blood vessels. The tubes of the lymphatic system lead into and out of these spongy little glands. These glands seem to act as little filters for the fluid as it passed through them, and also, it is supposed that they in some manner, affect or produce the corpuscle element in the lymph.

The lymphatic tubes are filled with many closely set valves and these together with the glands themselves, form a residing place for poisons due to their construction, and their remoteness from the direct impulse of the heart beat.

The superficial lymphatics can be reached and drained by massage and manipulation, and this is one reason why you feel so light and free after a good treatment. The deep seated lymphatics however, offer a real problem when it comes to relieving congestion, stagnation, and sluggishness therein.

Yet one of the best ways of cleaning out the poisons from the lymphatics which are deeply seated, is through and by the means of a proper regime of eating and food arrangements. In fact, the most satisfactory method of eradicating toxic poisons from the body, even though they may consist of specific infections as syphilis, gonorrhea and leprosy, is employed as part of a rational eliminating method of treatment, rather than is accomplished by the use of drugs.

In some cases, these dangerous social diseases can be completely eliminated within a few months by these new modern methods, where, heretofore years of medication have been required to merely suppress and cover up the condition.

Considering the menace to the public of such a disease as syphilis, where persons with an active case may sometimes be found working in a restaurant, handling food, it is a wonderful advance in therapeutics to have such sane methods of treating these deep seated conditions, as well as the ordinary cases of auto-intoxication, by this detoxicating routine, coupled with the other common sense procedures.

A cow may have many good qualities, but she is too modest to blow her own horn.

A woman has a queer way of letting a man look down upon her weakness that makes him look up to her.

British chemical plant manufacturers will hold an exhibition of apparatus, instruments and general equipment at London in July in connection with the jubilee of the Society of Chemical Industry.

ABE MARTIN

Nobuddy kin talk as soft an' gentle as a dentist with his back turned huntin' among his drills fer th' most ferocious one he kin find. We kin beat our muskets an' swords int' plowshares, but who's goin' t' beat our boys int' plowin'?

Do Your Building Now

If you have been planning to build a home but have been deferring it from year to year for various reasons, it is probable that you will never have an opportunity to build it more cheaply than now.

For the last ten years the price of building materials have been decreasing until this year all well informed observers declare that the minimum has been reached. Latest statistics issued by the government show that the average cost of dwellings per family in 257 representative cities was $4,385 in 1930, the lowest mark since 1924.

All of us who may be in the renting class have ambitions to own a home. Being "lord of all your survey" and not subject to the "do's and don'ts" of a landlord, gives a feeling of independence that grows with the years.

If you have contemplated becoming a home owner now is the time to investigate costs. Not only is this true of the construction costs but practically everything in home furnishings. Take a look around, consult building supply dealers and merchants. They will give you the proof.

Norman Baker "Starts Something"

Comes now a young lady of Kalona defending the old gentleman in London who will $1,000 to his grand-daughter, mentioned in Norman Baker's column recently. The Kalona resident, as shown in her article in the "People's Pulpit" column today, believes that the restrictions placed upon the English girl to become worthy of that thousand dollars, wouldn't do any harm on this side of the pond where all the new fangled notions have been adopted with enthusiasm by the fair sex. The Kalona correspondent says that one can be just as happy without going to the movies, painting cheeks and lips, attending dances, wearing a dress so small and light that it could be placed in an envelope and mailed for a two-cent stamp.

SAMMY JAY SPIES ON REDDY FOX

Filting here and filting there
Silently the livelong day.
Peering, prying, shrewdly spying—
Is the way of Sammy Jay.

Of course, I do not mean that he is doing this all the time. But that is Sammy's way when he wants to find out something that no one will tell him. There isn't a more clever spy in all the Green Forest. And there isn't any one who knows more about the affairs of other people. So when Sammy made up his mind that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy had managed to dig a new house and keep it a secret, and when he noticed that Reddy was doing a great deal more hunting than there seemed any good reason for if he had only one stomach to keep full, he promptly decided that he would do a little spying just to satisfy his own curiosity. He had a feeling that he might discover something very interesting.

So the next time Sammy saw Reddy hunting on the Green Forest, he kept Reddy's secret right, all the time pretending to be very busy hunting himself. He kept his tongue still and he kept as much out of sight as possible, but he managed to keep Reddy always in view. Reddy had very good luck that morning. Sammy was too far away to see what Reddy had caught, but presently Reddy started off as if bound straight for some place out of place. Sammy chuckled to himself and followed, taking great care to keep just as far behind Reddy as possible and still keep him in sight. Reddy trotted along swiftly to the edge of the Green Forest. This surprised Sammy because Sammy had hunted through the Green Forest for Reddy's new home and hadn't found a sign of it.

When Reddy reached the edge of the Green Forest he followed it to where it joined the Old Pasture. Then he looked this way and that way to make sure that no one was watching him. He was very crafty, was Reddy, as he always is. Sure that no one was watching, for he couldn't see Sammy Jay in the thick top of a tall hemlock tree, he turned into an old cow path among the bushes of the Old Pasture and trotted on as swiftly as before. But even then the clever rascal didn't go straight to his new home. He was far too smart for that. He followed the old cow path a short distance and then leaped lightly to one side among the bushes and jumped up to a big rock where he sat for a few minutes looking back the way he had come to make sure that no one was following him.

It was well for Sammy Jay that he knew the ways of Reddy Fox. He had expected Reddy to do some such smart trick as this and so he was not caught. Instead of following Reddy he had at once made up his mind that Reddy's home was somewhere in the Old Pasture and so he had flown swiftly by a round-about way to a certain tree in the Old Pasture beyond where Reddy was watching and from which he could see much of the Old Pasture. There he sat perfectly still.

Presently Reddy came trotting along right under the tree in which Sammy sat. Reddy didn't once think of looking up. He was quite sure that no one was watching him and he trotted on with an eager look in his eyes which puzzled Sammy. From bush to bush Sammy followed and so in a little while came to a place where he could see a heap of yellow sand in front of a great rock and back of the yellow sand an opening in the ground.

"Ha!" said Sammy, but not aloud. His eyes snapped joyfully. He knew that he had found Reddy's new home. Then he hid in a bush close by where he could watch, for he was not yet satisfied.

"There is something here worth seeing," said he to himself. And Sammy was right.

Next Story—What Sammy Jay Saw.

Germans have developed a tailless V-shaped airplane equipped with vertical rudders that serve as brakes in landing and that has made a speed of 75 miles an hour with an eight horsepower motor.

Street cars with a possible speed of 60 miles an hour and having their highest operating efficiency when running at more than 40 miles an hour have been built for a Pennsylvania interurban system.

bobbing one's hair, smoking cigarettes and various other fads.

Being a mere man we hesitate to comment. We tried it once and were advised that we were an ignorant, a back number, or words to that effect. So we have learned discretion and held our peace. But there is one thing certain. We would not be at all adverse to eating a "mess of mushrooms" providing they would be accompanied by a guarantee they were not toadstools. We can agree most enthusiastically with our Kalona reader that downing a few of them, with the proper "fixings," such as being smothered in a good steak with plenty of gravy, is a pleasure—and how!

The Curse Of Low Wages

One does not need to refer to radical propaganda to obtain facts concerning the curse of low wages and unemployment. The federal department of labor is doing an excellent work in gathering statistics showing the plight of the underpaid and underprivileged. The women's bureau has found innumerable cases where unemployment of other members of the family has forced the mother to join the ranks of the wage earner. One young man, in describing the situation, declared:

"When any member of our family is without work we cannot meet expenses. Our moral principles are discarded in an effort to secure a livelihood. We begin to lose faith in ourselves. Family life becomes a chaotic mass. We argue and quarrel about insignificant matters."

Equally deplorable is the necessity for mothers and fathers to work long hours, bringing them home with nerves frayed because of wages too low to care properly for themselves and children.

In a recent survey made by the women's bureau it was disclosed that over a fifth of the women studied were working 54 hours a week or more and not much more than a third were working 45 hours or less. It also seems that hand in hand with long hours go low wages. A study of employment of women in several states shows that the highest medium wage—half the women receiving more and half less—was $16.36 a week. Eight states showed an average wage falling below $13.

No, charity is not enough. Self-respecting Americans do not seek alms. A more fundamental planning on the part of the state and employer to assure a sound economic life, is needed. Social legislation is not the least of the problems facing the country.

The State Steps In

According to reports from New York, the estate of the late George F. Baker, said to have been the third wealthiest man in America, will be nearly $500,000,000. If this figure should be reached the state will collect about $75,000,000 and the federal government nearly $20,000,000. Like other states, New York is faced with a big financial problem because of the falling off in income taxes for 1930. Seventy-five million dollars should aid considerably in making up the deficit.

Commenting on the earnings of five cents a share on the common stock of the United States Steel Corporation, Jack Fabian says: it is just enough to give each shareholder a ride.

"Judge Named Head of Horse Body."—headline. Boy, a bale of hay for hizzoner, and make it snappy!

Our Platform for the People Is:

1. Less taxation.
2. Fewer State Commissions.
3. Universal school books.
4. Lower freight rates.
5. Return of river transportation.
6. A cleanup of some state institutions.
7. More efficiency in public offices.

People's Pulpit

People's Pulpit—

I noticed on the Sunday, May 10, issue of the Midwest Free Press in Mr. Baker's comments on the front page, that he writes of a man in London who will $1,000 to his grand-daughter if she does not use the lip stick or paint her face, wears no short skirts or bobs her hair, nor goes to the movies, dances or disports in a "mess of mushrooms" the ideas of the girls on the subject in the People's Pulpit column and here are mine.

The man in London may have been an old fossil but he was also a very wide-awake gentleman on the subject. I do not use lip stick nor rouge to paint my face. The old saying is "beauty is only skin deep" which is more truth than poetry. I wear my skirts reasonably below my knees, but I have seen girls wear something they call a dance skirt almost for only one day who are so bent on fads and pleasure are not getting anywhere with it.

Why are so many of our fair American girls, stooping to smoke cigarettes? Not because it makes ladies out of them; not because it prepares them for future usefulness. It does not. They do it because it is the fad.

I am 20 years old and am 100 per cent for the old gentleman in London. If the grand-daughter does not want the thousand dollars there are girls in the United States of America who can fill the bill.

We all like to read the Midwest Free Press and like the programs over KTNB and I hope the Muscatine station remains on the air.

Manhattan Days and Nights

By Walter Trumbull

There is a quiet and fashionable restaurant and speakeasy in New York, which operates under the usual alias of a club. It is housed on a side street in one of those houses originally built by the wealthy. On either side of it are similar houses, still occupied by rich owners. One of these owners recently went to the proprietor of the "club" and suggested that a private door be cut through, connecting the houses. He explained that he frequently believes the large parties and that by means of such a door he could take them over for entertainment without their having to go out in the street. Hearing of this, a member of the Artists and Writers Golf Club suggested that the thing to do was to have all the houses in the block connected by doors. Then, he exclaimed, nobody ever would have to go out in the rain.

In the days before John Held, Jr., had his metropolitan penthouse, when he used to work at his Westport farm, he was busily engaged on a drawing when a carpenter, doing some work on the place, stopped to draw proceedings. Mr. Held kept on drawing until finally the carpenter said:

"That is a job I never could do."

"Why not?" said the artist.

"Well," said the carpenter, "I ain't got the patience."

Theodore Metz, who wrote "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight," is a gentleman of eighty-three, with thick gray hair and moustache. He still wears a flowing black silk tie. Recently, he spoke over the radio and did it well.

Riding on a train from Washington to New York the other day, I met Harry Ruby, who wrote the music to "Roses in the Wind," "Animal Crackers" and a lot of other things. Harry Ruby is one of the most frenzied baseball fans in the country and had just been to the national capital to see the opening game between the Athletics and the Senators. With him was Al Schacht, of the Washington club, who was feeling none too cheerful, as the Mackmen had won a game that was a tough one for the Senators to lose.

"The trouble with your team," said Ruby, "is that it needs a few changes."

"What do you mean a few changes?" inquired Schacht, belligerently.

"Just a few changes, that's all," insisted Ruby. "You should get Babe Ruth to play right field, and then you might hire Lefty Grove and Mickey Cochrane."

THE SONG OF THE TRAFFIC

Let others delight in a hurrying flight
Over river and plain and hill;
To loiter in a car that moves fast and far
Brings me not the slightest thrill.

I would rather remain in the right-hand lane
As still as a basking clam.
Or to doze and dream in the sluggish stream
Of holiday traffic jam.

And to hear the crunch of the gears that grind
In the cars ahead and the cars behind.

There is time to look at the purling brook
And the lindens that line the road.
And to watch the cows and the sheep that browse
By the husbandman's snug abode.

No clutch of steel on a wobbly wheel
Is useful to keep the course.
And one does not start with a throbbing heart
At the sight of a frightened horse.

One may loiter in the seat with untroubled ease
And gaze at the birds in the neighboring trees.

What matter the cry of a horn hard by
Or a chauffeur's impatient shout.
Or a siren's blast? You are hard and fast
And you know that you can't get out.

Just to spend a day on the broad highway,
And to look at the spreading view,
And be lulled to sleep by the bleats of sheep
At the fall of the gentle dew
Is better than fleeing along the pike
From an angry cop on a motor-bike.

Suggestion
Why don't the railroads offer a divorce free with every ticket to Reno?
Look at His Map
Mr. Ghandi may be a hero some day, but it won't be a movie hero.

Anyway, a gangster is arrested now and then for driving a murder car past a stop signal.

One of his recent tours, in which he lectured on man and demonstrates by playing the piano, took Dr. Sigmund Spaeth to the town of Homer, N. Y., while he was in the middle of a piece, he felt a tug at his sleeve and, looking down, saw Jerome Fay, five-year-old son of Nancy Fay, the illustrator and a neighbor of the Spaeths in Westport. Jerome has seen no reason why he should not come up on the stage and greet an old friend.

"I had a hard time keeping a straight face," says Dr. Spaeth, "but I merely said 'Hello,' and explained to the audience, as I kept on playing. It seems that Jerome was in Homer visiting his grandmother. He sat down in front of the piano and stayed there during the remainder of the program, making such a hit that I am thinking of adding a juvenile to my act."

DID YOU FIND THE ERRORS

The tenth sentence of the recent Spring Test was published again in the last instalment of "The Right Word." Those who did not try the test were invited to find the errors. Did you find them all? Let us now revise the sentence and correct it. The original read as follows:

"To me, who has all the details in mind, comes the request, and the reason is because there ain't any one else available to do the work."

Now for the correct version: "To me, who have all the details in mind, comes the request, and the reason is that there isn't any one else available to do the work. With these three errors, has because and ain't, the twenty-first sentence in the Spring Test have been brought to the attention of readers of this column.

Why do we change "has" to "have"? The subject of "have" is "who." But the person of "who" is first, second or third, is determined by the noun or pronoun to which "who" refers, which in this case is the pronoun "me." "Me" is in the first person. "Who" is in the first person. "Have" is in the first person. Never say, "the reason is because." Say, "the reason is that." Never use the expression "ain't."

Thus endeth the discussion of the Spring Test.

MOVIE BRIEFS

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., (INS).—Charging false arrest, Harry Langdon, comedian, and his wife, today had started action against James P. Dickson for $502,500 damages.

After the Langdons had been accused of stealing house fixtures valued at $175, allegedly on complaint of Dickson, they were acquitted.

SAN FRANCISCO (INS).—Dorothy Mackall, blonde film star returning from Honolulu, shook her head three times today denying reports of engagements to Neil A. Miller, John McCormick, and Walter Byron.

She named six "boys" out in Honolulu that she just couldn't bear to leave. Last among them was Miller who took out a license to wed the actress.

"There's no explanation," Miss Mackall said. "We called it off—it was mutual."

HOLLYWOOD (INS).—Work before marriage is Carol Lombard's slogan. If she finds time she may marry William Powell.

This hard working blond actress has made five pictures this year and is scheduled to do four more before August.

Popovers
One egg, 1 cup sweet milk, 1 cup flour, a little salt. Beat five minutes by the clock. Have your iron gem pan ready, greased and very hot. Bake about 25 minutes. Fill the pans only half-full.

Fish Hash
Place 1 pound salt fish in dish on second cover of stove. After it soaks a while change water and let it steam, but not boil. Use about 6 or 7 boiled potatoes. Chop all together and fry in pork fat until brown. Moisten a little with milk.

Raisin Pie
Cover 1 pound of raisins with boiling water, simmer until tender, then add the juice and grated rind of 1 lemon and 1 cup of sugar well mixed with 2 tablespoons of flour. Bake in 2 crusts. This quantity will make 3 pies.

The Dodge twins—Beth (left) and Betty—who, as one of the best known sister acts in vaudeville, have delighted continental audiences with their jazz dancing and American songs have filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in New York. The sisters, both in their early twenties, list their liabilities at $4,863. They have no unpledged assets, they said.

FOX PALACE NEWS CHATS

When such a round up of fun loving favorites all get together in one picture, the result is easily seen and heard. We are speaking of the laughs that you are going to get when you see and hear Jack Oakie, Mitzi Green, Eugene Pallette, Stuart Erwin and June Collyer in the Paramount picture "Dude Ranch" which is showing tonight and tomorrow.

This cast of hilarious stars are going to give you the "low down" on the new American pastime, dude ranching in the rib roaring Rockies. The added subjects are the Paramount, Newsreel, Oswald Cartoons and Chapter 5 of the serial "Finger Prints."

Her first dramatic picture. And what a smash hit! That's the way critics are describing Clara Bow in the Paramount picture "Kick In" which comes Sunday for a three day run.

It is from the sensational stage success by Willard Mack, and is a human, vital drama of down-to-earth emotions, chock full of interesting characters, filled with pathos, drama, humor and romance, a story of malice fighting love. Clara Bow is surrounded by a cast of splendid players among whom are Regis Toomey of "The Finger Points," Wynne Gibson of "Man of the World," Juliette Compton "the other woman" of "Unfaithful," and Paul Hurst.

Shoes to Match New Handbag, Paris Decrees

By ALICE LANGELEIER
PARIS (INS).—If your shoes keep step with fashion, they must match your new handbag. This is one of Paris' latest decrees.

There are any number of skins to choose from, although the loveliest, and certainly the best wearing, are the various snake and lizard skins. To wear on the morning walk or shopping tour there is the Alpine Python or Java lizard skin, practically indestructible for the fibres are interwoven very much like the threads of a fine woolen material and present a perfectly solid surface almost impossible to tear. They come in black and blue and several shades of brown and can be dyed in any color to match the bag or ensemble.

For afternoon there are more delicately marked Alpines, Calcutta or Azra lizard and garung skins, a water-sake, by the way.

For the beach, white python will be very chic this season.

"Caticuta perle" has a sheen like mother-of-pearl and is particularly lovely for evening.

Bridge-Auction and Contract

By the Authority
MILTON C. WORR

CONTRACT BRIDGE
The above hand was played in a game of Duplicate Contract, and most of the tables failed to make game with East and West holdings. At all the tables South opened with a bid of one Diamond and most of the West's lure by the 100 honors, bid two or three Hearts. When that happened, North passed, and East trump, would have no difficulty in saving game by winning two Diamond tricks and two Hearts.

Game was in the hand if West had realized that Spades might be a more advantageous trump in spite of the four honors in Hearts. To start on a fishing expedition, West should have doubled South's Diamond. If East should answer with two Clubs (as West might well expect), West would bid two Hearts to give East a choice between Spades and Hearts, as the Heart bid under such circumstances would show clearly that West's strength was in those two suits. Of course an East response with either Hearts or Spades would be entirely satisfactory to West.

Only three Wests doubled. At one of those tables East answered with two Clubs. West bid two Hearts, East three Hearts, and West four; so the bidding there went wrong also.

Another East caught the real significance of the double coupled with the Heart bid on the second round, and knew that West did not want to play at Diamonds, Clubs or No Trump he understood that his choice was between Hearts and Spades and showed his preference for Spades by bidding that suit on the second round. Game in Spades resulted.

Perhaps the most scientific bidding by East was shown at the remaining table where East called one Spade in response to West's double, realizing that an information doubler always welcomes a major answer. East's strong Clubs seemed to preclude the possibility that West wanted to play with that suit the trump, so East on the first round showed his four Spades by bidding one Spade and of course a game in that suit was the outcome.

We Women

Work Only Escape For Lonely Girl

By VIRGINIA VANE
Dear Virginia Vane: The first man I loved jilted me and hurt my feelings badly. For a long time I was lonely and miserable. Then gradually I met others. Now there is one young man who interests me. He is as unsophisticated as the first man was sophisticated. In some ways he seems almost too young, although he is older than I. He wants me to marry him but I am afraid. Will he be able to make good? He seems almost childish in some ways, but is studying hard to improve himself. I love him but I know I can't go on loving him unless I were really proud of him and I don't know whether I'll ever feel proud of him. Tell me what you think I ought to do.

CHRISTINE.
Give the boy time, and also give yourself an opportunity to think it over. Maybe he just hasn't had the chance to prove himself a handling his education has been all wrong, his training bad, so that he now presents the worst side of himself, always.

Don't give him up too hastily because he's a fairly raw product. He may be the man for you and you may yet be proud of him. Only, you're comparing him all the time with the other chap who seems to have been a slick city fellow if there ever was one.

Well slick city fellows may cut a splendid figure while they're young and they may have a way of appearing to conquer the world all in one fell swoop. But very often their sophistication covers a multitude of weaknesses which show up gradually as they grow older. While the poor young chap who doesn't know how to put his best foot forward, may grow stronger, more sure of himself, more capable of handling any situation, as he grows older.

Anyway, wait a while and watch the present boy friend. If he shows a real desire for self-improvement, encourage him, and you may yet be proud of him.

ANITO: Poor child, I feel so sorry for you and would like to help you but in spite of my feeling of sympathy I know that you are thinking much too much about yourself. You've had a hard time. Your life is desperately lonely and it's only natural that you should brood considerably on your present situation. But don't you see that your own thoughts hurt you? Don't you see that all the time and energy you devote to self-pity (which is certainly justified in some measure) you could better employ to doing anything at all constructive?

Your unfortunate childhood started your self-consciousness. Your subsequent unpopularity finished you. You learned to be more shy, more reserved, more sensitive. You sense ridicule in those around you. Perhaps the ridicule is there.

LOUISVILLE IN FERVOR ON EVE OF BIG EVENT

Twenty Grand, Mate Favorites to Win Annual Race

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
INS Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE—Derby eve found picturesque Louisville today in the throes of an ecstatic fervor such as always grips it just before the running of the Blue Grass state's historic Kentucky derby.

A carnival atmosphere has transformed this famous old southern city into a blaze of color. Flags and bunting greet the eye on all sides. The hotels are jammed. Incoming specials are disgorging trainloads of visitors, caravans of automobiles are clogging the highways leading into town, at intervals, airplanes swoop down to land in fields with their humbly cargoes.

Derby gossip fills the air. Everything else has become secondary to the $50,000 derby which will have its fifty seventh running at the beautiful Churchill Downs tomorrow afternoon before an enthusiastic throng of upwards of 60,000 spectators.

To Wager Millions
Something like $1,500,000—maybe $2,000,000—will be wagered at the track tomorrow. This important sum is, of course, below the total of some other years such as, for example, prosperous 1928 when $2,700,000 was poured into the machines in a single afternoon for what is believed to be a world record for betting.

Fourteen horses, or less, will go to the post. Twenty Grand, the Green-tree stable entry, and Mate, owned by A. C. Rootwick, are the joint favorites on the eve of the battle, although the odds may change at any moment. Mate's winning of the pre-derby last Saturday has increased his following tremendously.

A thrilling race is anticipated. Unlike a year ago when Gallant Fox was almost the conceded winner, this year the derby is a contest. In one sense it is almost a battle between the east and west, for the Blue Grass state is without a home-bred entry to pull for. The east will be chiefly represented by Twenty Grand, Mate, Equipoise, Anchors Aweigh and Surf Board. The west will have fighting for it Pittsburgher, Sweep All, Spanish Play, up in the event of Mate and Inco. Other possible starters, all conceded to have a chance, are Boys Howdy, Prince D'Amour, Ladder and Don Leon.

Derby Fifth Race

Post time for the derby, the fifth race, probably will be at 5 p. m. C. S. T. Each colt will carry 126 pounds over the mile and a quarter.

Everything was in readiness at Churchill Downs course for the running of the event. The thoroughbreds are being carefully guarded and groomed at their stables. The Downs is at its best in May and is getting grander as time passes. Finely built stands line the outer rail of the half-mile stretch, with sunken gardens near the clubhouse and flowers and blue grass in the infield. Here and there in the enclosures, where thousands of well-mannered spectators are to be seen, are the long lines of mutual booths for the derby betting.

Fair skies and sunny weather are promised by the weather man for tomorrow, in contrast to the muggy, rainy weather that has prevailed earlier this week. If the weather is ideal, Colonel Matt J. Winn predicts that the number that will witness the spectacle will be close to 70,000.

Trafton and Wife Suing for Divorce

CHICAGO—(INS)—George Trafton, a football star at Notre Dame and with the Chicago Bears, and a prize fighter, is "just a gigolo" to his wife.

Both are suing for divorce and both are charging cruelty. Besides the "gigolo" accusation, Alyce Trafton, claims that George broke her jaw instead of Primo Carnera's in March 1929 and trained for his bout with Art Shires by punching her face.

INDIANS DROP ANOTHER GAME TO WASHINGTON

Loss Puts Cleveland Firmly in Second Division Now

By COPELAND C. BURG
INS Sports Writer

NEW YORK—Most folks never will get excited over a loser, but we are all broken out in a rash today about the near tragedy that has snared one of the outstanding figures in baseball.

Some of baseball's biggest dramas are written on the seamy side of the street and far away from the land of milk and honey, where the naughty Athletics and Yankees are swinging their canes, we turn this morning to raise goose flesh up and down our spine by taking a peek at manager Roger Peckinpaugh of the Cleveland Indians.

Here is a man in the midst of a desperate struggle. Almost in a panic he is battling to keep his Indians up there in the American race. He has made radical and frequent changes in an effort to stem the downward slide of his team but disaster has met his every move.

Peck Benches Vosmik

Yesterday he benched his sensational rookie, Vosmik, who stood the league on end early in the season with an overgrown batting average, but along came Sam Jones of the Senators and made things even more Russian for the Indians by making them bite the dust again, 5 to 4. The defeat at Cleveland firmly in the second division with the cellar door yawning below.

And another desperate move provided Peckinpaugh's undoing. The score was 5 to 3 in Washington's favor as Cleveland batted in the ninth inning. With two men out, Sewell doubled and pinch hitter Myatt scored him with a single. Then Peck called on Vosmik to pinch hit. But the thing went awry. Vosmik forced Myatt for the final out.

Except in the sixth inning Rube Walberg had the White Sox powerless and scored his fifth victory as the Athletics won, 5 to 2. Al Simmons picked his sixth homer.

Yanks Swamp Browns

Charlie Ruffing hurled seven hitless frames for the Yankees and Gehrig smacked two homers to win for New York over St. Louis, 14 to 2.

St. Louis, a rookie, singled in the eighth to spoil Ruffing's chances for a no hit victory.

A sixth inning rally won for the Boston Red Sox, 4 to 3, from the Tigers. The Ruddy Hoos scored four runs in this section, driving Waite Hoyt to the showers with five safeties. Rothrock, Boston second baseman, batted three hits.

Bad weather again postponed all games in the National league, so many double-headers have been scheduled in the senior circuit that some of yesterday's postponed games will not be played until the middle of August.

MUSKY HI GOES TO AMES MEET

Coach Leonard Hunn Takes Ten Stars To State Meet

Confident and full of pep, ten Muscatine high school track and field stars left early this morning for Ames where they will compete against the pick of the athletes of the state in the state meet there Saturday.

Coach Hunn is sure that his proteges will come through with enough points to place the local school among the first three in the state. He has with him a well balanced squad of runners and field men.

Hunn has given his boys some of the most strenuous drills of the entire season this week in preparation for the meet and all appear fit and ready.

Those making the trip and the events in which they will compete are: Bob Evans, relay, 220 and 100 yard dashes; Bob McElroy, mile run; John Carnes, half mile run; John Wilson, high jump; Ray Utley, 220 yard low hurdles and javelin throw; Harold Weber, relay; Ed Lee, relay and quarter mile run; George Grosjean, relay; Gerald Hoyt, shot put and discus throw; and Gene mindler, high hurdles.

Coach Jesse E. Day's Davenport high school team which won the district meet at Davenport last Saturday in which Muscatine placed second, is expected to send home the most winners as they have several individual stars such as Layden, Scherer, Wilkinson and Jones, track quarter mile, who set a new district record for this distance in the district meet there Saturday.

ST. LOUIS—(INS)—John Paladin, 18-year old amateur boxer, died at his home here today, just a few hours after he had won a decision in a fight last night.

CORUM FIGURES DERBY WILL BE BEST IN YEARS

Equipoise and Twenty Grand Stand Out, in His Opinion

By BILL CORUM
INS Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Some famous Chinese philosopher is said to have said that any fool knew that one horse could outrun another.

Quite true, quite true. But what the Chinese philosopher neglected to say was which horse.

So for fifty-seven years, in lean and plenty, the colts have gathered at Louisville and the springs to find out which horse. Tomorrow on the brown ribbon of the Downs track that runs between Blue Grass and bright flowers, they will run the Kentucky Derby again, and the name of the horse that wins it will never be entirely forgotten.

This derby of ours, you know, was not always a great race, palled in world interest only by the English "derby" at Epsom and the Grand National Steeplechase at Aintree. Advertising changed our derby from an unheard of overnight stake into America's most popular turf classic, and thus it will remain. For there is only one Churchill Downs.

Belmont Stakes Test

All competent followers of the thoroughbred know that the Belmont stakes at the true derby distance of one and one-half miles, which is run at Belmont park in June, is a truer test of a three-year old, and that the classic, also known as Arlington park, is the same.

True, too, that some horsemen hold the winning of these stakes in higher esteem. But the Belmont and the classic are not Kentucky derbies. Matt Winn, president of the Kentucky Jockey Club, sold the derby to the people by advertising, and the derby always will be the people's race.

It is unfortunate, but true, that the gentlemen who run Belmont park haven't the first idea of the value of advertising in such matters, so that it is probable that the Belmont stakes will go on year after year hiding its light under a bushel except to the initiated.

Thron's Gathering

So they are thronging here today from Canada and California and New York and New Orleans and Chicago to see the fifty-seventh derby run tomorrow afternoon, and the winner will be the people's horse.

The colt that catches the scent of Matt Winn's blanket of American Beauties in his widespread nostrils tomorrow afternoon will be the public's champion, and that is that.

But the rub with you and me is, which one will it be? So we find ourselves right back therewith the Chinese philosopher. And not bad company, after all, since all Chinese philosophers at least know a good place where you can get your laundry done cheap.

Nothing is certain about any horse race, but this much seems reasonably certain about this one: An eastern horse will win it.

The peaknote would have decided the derby, had it been a truly run race. Unfortunately, it wasn't. I shall want to see the track and

St. Louis Street Car Strike Looms

ST. LOUIS-(INS)—A street car strike loomed for St. Louis today. Employees of the St. Louis Public Service company, which operates the trolley line here, voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to strike if the wage dispute between them and the company is not settled by midnight, next Tuesday.

U. S. War Mothers Arrive in France

CHERBOUR-(INS)—The first contingent of 125 American war mothers arrived here today on the S. S. George Washington to visit the American war cemeteries in France. The pilgrimages, the first of which was made last year, are being made under the auspices of the United States government.

'Policy King' Makes Million in a Year

NEW YORK-(INS)—A new "policy king" in Harlem, who in a year's time banked $1,753,342.33 taken in dollars, nickels, dimes, even pennies, from hopeful "numbers" rans, was revealed today at the vice inquiry.

This new monarch, William Bruner, is, however, among the missing but the dramatic story of how he built up a fortune by taking the suckers who thought they could pick a winning number, was laid bare through bank records.

This Woman Could 'Pay Through Nose'

VICTORIA, B. C.-(INS)—If Mrs. V. T. Chetty, wife of the director of the Imperial Bank of India, was asked to pay through the nose, she could easily do it.

Residents of this city gasped when they saw Mrs. Chetty walk down the gangplank of the Empress of Canada with two diamonds adorning her nose, one set on each side. She was bedecked with other jewels valued at thousands of dollars. Mrs. Chetty will visit in Chicago and New York before returning to her home in Madras.

Fifty eight clubs in sixteen minor leagues are playing night baseball, the latest figures show.

You Do Not Take A Chance; Pay for Baby in Advance

CHICAGO-(INS)—A plan whereby babies are to be "paid for" on the installment plan has been inaugurated at the Presbyterian hospital.

Superintendent A. A. Bacon said the hospital will issue "baby books" containing blanks for record of payments and information of value to expectant mothers.

"Payment of at least $5 is to be made every month as the young wife comes to our pre-natal clinic," Bacon explained. "When she enters the hospital she has paid $45, which provides a ten-day stay."

Girl on Her Death Bed, Becomes Bride

MONTGOMERY, Ala.-(INS)—Jealousy that prompted pretty Marguerite Hardy, 16, to swallow poison, today brought a death-bed marriage ceremony that united the dying girl and her estranged sweetheart, Willie R. Crittenden, 18.

The girl took poison Monday because she heard that Willie had telephoned another girl. When doctors told her that she had only two days to live, she expressed a wish that she and her sweetheart wed.

Crittenden, who had remained close to her ward, welcomed the proposal and a license was obtained. The marriage took place with a few witnesses.
